As a citizen he was admired & respected.

As a friend he was warm & sincere.

As a husband he was tender and affectionate.

As a father he was kind and indulgent.

He was over punctual in observance of religious duties and patient under the most painful suffering.

The memorial of his many virtuous will long remain in-graved in the bosom of his friends when his body shall bare mingled with its original dust, and his happy spirit found admittance to the presence of his God.
